In conversation with top leaders, we find a few recurring questions:

What does it mean to grow myself to successfully meet the challenges I'm facing?

Where are my peers – other leaders actively seeking their next horizon?

What role can we play in evolving leadership to meet the needs of the future?

The Burren Executive Leadership Retreat is a by-invitation gathering of senior global leaders who are addressing similar inquiries. As such a leader, you see that your ability to successfully lead organization and system-wide change depends on your ability to grow and change yourself. You are seeking new ways to expand your capacity while engaging with a network of diverse, yet like-minded peers.

This first-of-its kind gathering of accomplished leaders and renowned artists will open new leadership territory, allowing for conversation and personal insights to emerge from a more expansive mind than our everyday work allows.

It will be a place where you can:

- integrate the inner and outer dimensions of leadership by tapping new, more creative sources of development
- collaborate with peers who understand your challenges and are willing to assist you in addressing them
- reflect and renew in the timeless Burren landscape
- explore how leadership can evolve for the sake of future generations

Take away a clear view of your current leadership capacity and steps toward your next horizon; access to a global network of peers who can continue to inspire and support; and powerful tools and practices that will help you thrive as you lead complex change.

The three days will include ample time for personal reflection, peer inquiry and coaching, and whole group discussion about organizations, systems, and leadership itself. This learning will be supported by guided exploration in the Burren landscape, creative dialogue with the artists, and immersion in the hospitality of the local community.

Convened by a global leadership development team and the Burren College of Art, the retreat brings together accomplished and emerging leaders from all sectors with renowned poet and author David Whyte and acclaimed musician Martin Hayes.
